Why Suffer From Migraine or Sick Headache?

Dr. J. J. Caldwell says that this exceedingly distressing disease does not shorten life, but does not appear to be corable. Sufferers from this affletion are condemned to undergo the periodical attacks every few weeks until they are ferty sens of age, after which the attacts are less frequent, and finally disappear enfirely. Palliative measures during the attack are all that it is pessible to suggest, while care in the diet is the best preventive measure. An attack may often be prevented by taking two anti-kamma tablets when the first symptoms appear, and one anti-kamma tablet every two hours during the attack shortens it, cases the pain and brings rest and quiet.

Anti-kamma tablets may be obtained at all druggists. Ask for A-K Tablets. They quickly relieve all pain.—Advertisement.

Early History of Georgetown.

After outlining chronologically the founding of Georgetown by order of King George II, its remaining a part of Frederick county, Md., until the war of the revolution, and of being ncorporated in several other counties, finally being transferred from Montgomery county in 1791, to form a part the District of Columbia, Mr. Gordon spoke at length of the early life and business pursuits in this thriving

The structure was swept away by a flood, but rebuilt, with aid by Congress, in 1811. The bridge at this point was destroyed and rebuilt more than once, and, in 1832, the rights of the company were taken over by the corporation of Georgetown, and later by the United States. The bridge was built by the Alexandria Canal Company, and was in no sense a highway bridge, be said, as it was used to connect the end of the canal on the Virginia side with the Chesapeake and Ohio canal, on the Georgetown side, for the passage of canal boats. During the civil war the water was drawn off from the trough and the bridge used for the crossing of troops and supplies for the army. After the war attempts were made to use it again for canal purposes, but the water leaked as through a sieve and the superstructure became so unsafe that it was abandoned as an aqueduct. In 1655 Charles county was created out of St. Marys county, and in 1695 Prince Georges county out of Charles, and the land on both sides of Rock creek was embraced within its bounds. In 1748 Frederick county was created out of Prince Georges, and embraced all the land lying west of the lower or east side of Rock creek. In 1776 that part of Frederick beginning on the east side of the mouth of Rock creek and running with the said river to the mouth of the Monocacy was erected into a new county by the name of Montgomery county. In 1738 Maryland directed its representatives in Congress to cede unto the United States such district as Congress might fix upon and accept for the seat of government. Describing the founding of Georgetown, the speaker said: "No more desirable location for a town could have been found; deep water in front and fine back country on both sides of the river; and it is well to know that in the early days Rock creek was navigable for a considerable distance from its mouth, which extended from the foot of Wisconsin avenue to Easbys point. Tobacco was extensively cultivated, and, to provide for its inspection and shipment the vestry of St. Georges, now Rock Creek parish, to which the law then in force gave authority, granted permission for the erection of a tobacco warehouse at the mouth of Rock creek. This warehouse was built where the buildings of the Capital Traction Company, just west of Wisconsin avenue, now are located, and was continuously used as such for nearly a hundred years. In 1751 the colonial assembly of Maryland authorized the laying cut of a town near the warehouse; in 1783 a charter as a city was granted, and

"Now that there are no local officers, the members of this association and citizens generally can still make their sacrifices for the benefit of the community and show to other parts of the National Capital that the seed planted by the original Georgetownians has brought forth good fruit in their descendants and successors.

"The people of Georgetown have always been brave and ever ready to give service to their country. In the French and Indian wars, the wars of the revolution, of 1812 and with Mexico, the war between the states and with Spain its young men have gome to the front, shed their blood and in many instances yielded up their lives in the service of the state. I feel confident that should the dark clouds which now threaten burst into war no part of this wide land will show more loyalty and self-sacrificing devotion, or send proportionately more young men to the front, than the small terriby long odds the biggest ceremonial ession the grotto has ever held. It was a whirl of excitement and ex-pectancy from start to finish, and when the general staff of jokesmiths of the aganization had finished the rites, rescribed and injected, talent from the local theaters came to the rescue and kept up the laughter, songs and other features of the big celebration going swiftly to the close.

Much of the grotto ceremonial is of the kind that cannot be talked about to the "profane." but a great deal can, it was explained, and one of the big features of the latter type was the conclave of the high court of Mokanna, which was invoked to try Grand Chief Justice Ed S. Schmid and Past Monarch Peter R. Pullman for "conspiracy with esoteric intent." Messrs. Schmid and Pullman had headed rival committees that secured the class of initiates, and, instead of being rewarded for their accomplishments, they were "jugged, joked and jostled out to do better next time." going swiftly to the close.
